~COMMENTS~

"Students were able to experience the arts in a way that they would never been able to. It was lasting memory that hopefully will inspire them for a long time." ~ Principal

"This residency was wonderful for students of all abilities...She [Beverly] was so encouraging and positive toward each individual that everyone felt uplifted and more confident." ~Parent, On-site Coordinator

BEVERLY MANGHAM

"Beverly instilled in the students a desire to find their own special art and to pursue it. That the arts are in all life. Exploration of our own world never stops, and through the arts we can express ourselves." ~ Teacher

QUESTION: Did you notice anything about yourself that changed as a result of the residency?

ANSWERS FROM STUDENTS:

"Junk can be treasure. If you say to your self I can't do this or my art is stupid. Your art is not stupid and you can do it! All we need is a little practice. I noticed art is not stupid it is a treasure. Art is important!" ~Jennifer

"When I didn't use junk before, I thought it was just junk, but now whenever I see something that looks like junk I think of it as art." ~ Bryce

"I feel proud I did an art and finished it and it looks good. This changed the way I felt about art it, it made me want to do it again and again and again. I did my art the way I felt." ~ Emilee
